

[FREE] Prison Labor in the United States: An Economic Analysis (New Political Economy)

Prison Labor in the United States: An Economic Analysis (New Political Economy)

Asatar Bair

*ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC / audiobook

 Download

 Read Online

#3504136 in eBooks 2007-11-21 2007-11-21 File Name: B001UFFN6A | File size: 36.Mb

Asatar Bair : Prison Labor in the United States: An Economic Analysis (New Political Economy) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Prison Labor in the United States: An Economic Analysis (New Political Economy):

This book is the only comprehensive analysis of contemporary prison labor in the United States. In it, the author makes the provocative claim that prison labor is best understood as a form of slavery, in which the labor-power of each inmate (though not their person) is owned by the Department of Corrections, and this enslavement is used to extract surplus labor from the inmates, for which no compensation is provided. Other authors have claimed that prison labor is slavery, but no previous study has made a rigorous argument based on a systematic analysis of the flows of surplus labor which take place in the various ways prison slavery is organized in the US prison system, nor has another study systematically examined "prison household" production, in which inmates produce the goods and services necessary to run the prison, nor does another work discuss state welfare in prisons, and how this affects prison labor. The study is based on empirical findings gathered by the author's direct observation of prison factories in 28 prisons across the country. This book offers new insights into the practice of prison labor, and should be read by all serious students of American society.

About the Author Asatar Bair is a professor of economics and statistics at the City College of San Francisco. His research interests include the economics of crime and punishment, class theory, monetary economics, international trade, and economic philosophy and methodology. He is interested in the intersection between economics and self-realization; he serves as a teacher for the Institute for Applied Meditation.